The U. S. A. is still doing business at the old stand. A sixty million dollar merger of coal mines, a many million dollar merger of steel companies. This helps to standardize business, otherwise keep up prices. Let Mr. Galled Jade Average Citizen win.

A judge in Missouri decides that bees have a right to go where they will, collecting what they want. An ordinance restricting bee travel is unconstitutional. Once the law said that a woman with a child could go where she chose, taking fruit from any orchard unmolested. Now that would be stealing, but bees are still free.

Panic on the Berlin stock exchange. Why, do you suppose? Not because German money had gone to almost nothing, so that you could buy for a dollar 280 marks, formerly worth $70. German money gains value; that interferes with plans of speculators; as the money dropped, the price of stocks went up.

Here we had a mental panic among financiers when it was proposed to establish the Federal Reserve, which, as those financiers now know, saved this country recently from the worst panic the world ever saw.

High finance is an exciting thing, sometimes not very intelligent.

One good thing may come from the Washington conference. Representatives of different nations getting together, discussing what it is that each wants in the way of a slice of China, for instance, enlightened each other.

Perhaps the amount of talk in all the newspapers of the world will finally convince governments that what they are trying to take from each other is not worth what it would cost.

News indicates a plan developed by our European friends to set aside Washington's theory about no alliance. If the plan goes through there will be an association of nations, a sort of league under another name. That association, if certain interests arrange it, will consist of England, Japan, and the United States chiefly.

The message that Japan and England send to the United States is, "Come in; the water is fine." This is an invitation that the United States has always refused. What it would do next remains to be seen.

In any case, the proposed arrangement will be even less than a scrap of paper. If written on paper it becomes a treaty and must pass the Senate. The first year of an Administration overwhelmingly elected on a no-League-of-Nations fight will hardly ask the Senate and the people formally to approve an imitation league.

One of the latest conference guesses is that Secretary Hughes plans to include in the discussion decent treatment of Russia and protection of her integrity.

If Mr. Hughes can prevent the breaking down in chaos of the Russian colossus, he will have rendered one great service to the world, to future peace and mental and physical health.

As this is written, the latest Arbuckle news suggests a deadlock, one woman juror holding out against eleven others. Can't you imagine the eleven describing the obstinacy of the twelfth and "doubting the wisdom" of putting women on juries? Perhaps the obstinate lady thinks that when all of a crowd get drunk, and one is killed or dies amid the drunkenness, something should be done about it.

The doctors say that two personalities, two separate minds, are living in the body of a young woman in Ohio. Miss Bernice Reddick, nineteen years old, intelligent, educated, lives, or did until recently, with another human personality, both locked up and living in the same brain.

ARBUCKLE JURY HUNG, ELEVEN TO ONE

Five-Power Alliance On Pacific Proposed

WOMAN JUROR STANDS IN WAY OF FILM COMIC AND ACQUITTAL

Judge Refuses Request of Talesmen to Be Discharged. insists on Verdict.

DISAGREEMENT IS LIKELY

Date of Retrial Already a Subject of Speculation—Crowd Thins Out.

By ELLIS H. MARTIN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3.—The Arbuckle jury will NOT be discharged tonight. Every possible chance will be given tomorrow for them to reach a verdict.

This was a decision of a conference shortly after 6 o'clock in the chambers of Judge Landerback.

Probability of a hung jury grew tonight as the hours passed without any sign of an agreement.

Conference Is Arranged.

At 4:30 p. m. today the jury called Bailiff McGovern into the juryroom. They asked to be taken before Judge Landerback. The judge was not at his office and they were told he would not be summoned unless a verdict had been reached. As no verdict had been reached, the judge was not summoned. Later, however, a conference was arranged at which the jury asked to be discharged.

The jury went to dinner at 6:55 p. m. tonight. They returned to their deliberations at 8:30 p. m.

This much was learned concerning the conference:

Gavin McNab suggested that the jury be permitted to remain out until Tuesday morning in an effort to reach a verdict.

Assistant District Attorney U'Ren opposed this as imposing what "would amount to coercion" on the jury.

Judge Landerback indicated he would return to court at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Even to One for Acquittal.

A ballot is understood to have been taken at 4:30 o'clock, which stood 11 to 1 for acquittal, according to a report about the courtroom. A woman juror, it is said, is holding out for conviction.

If an agreement is not reached by Monday afternoon, it is expected Justice Landerback would order their discharge. This would mean a new trial.

District Attorney Brady said tonight that the possibility of a new trial had never been discussed, as he and his assistant expected a verdict of guilty to be returned.

Defense counsel, on the other hand, were equally strong in their belief that one or two stubborn ones are holding out and will eventually cast their vote for acquittal.

No Hope of Early Retrial.

It was stated tonight, however, that there is little likelihood of a new trial until after the first of the year.

"If a new trial must be had, we are ready to start at once," Gavin McNab, chief counsel for the defense declared tonight. It was pointed out today that the holiday period would interrupt any trial started immediately and necessitate postponement until after New Year.

Only a few of the faithful spectators, who have clung to their seats in the little courtroom like leeches, remained this afternoon to await the verdict. And as the vigil wore into the night this crowd dwindled.

Arbuckle restrained nervousness by walking about the corridors, occasionally seating himself with McNab who sat quietly at counsel table waiting word from the jury.

The shift in the ballots puzzled the "doctors" all day. It was virtually accepted around the corridors of the Hall of Justice that until very late last night the count was 11-to-1 for acquittal. Two jurors appeared to

8. Negotiations in naval ratio question at standstill while Japanese delegates awaited word from Tokyo.

CITIZENS ASK VOICE IN SCHOOLS SURVEY

Federation Wants D. C. Residents Named on Group to Work Out Plans.

If Congress appoints a committee to make a survey of District schools before appropriating funds for the extensive school program recommended by the Board of Education it should consist of Washingtonians and not outsiders.

This was the substance of the report of the committee on education of the Federation of Citizens' Associations adopted at the regular monthly meeting last night in the District building.

The federation recommended that if such a committee be appointed it should consist of the engineer commissioner, the superintendent of schools and the municipal architect.

Charles A. Baker, president of the Federation of Associations, appointed the following committee to consider revising the constitution of the federation: William B. Westlake, Edward F. Colladay, Daniel A. Edwards, William McK. Clayton, William B. Todd, Warner Stutler and Jesse Suter.

Holds Babe to Breast While She Drowns It

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Dec. 3.—Pressing her two months old daughter to her breast, Mrs. Robert Trauback, thirty, wife of a contracting painter of Winton Place, today sat in a bath tub, turned on the water, and drowned the baby. The mother also tried to drown herself but was unsuccessful.

When a neighbor discovered the mother she refused to leave the tub and would not relinquish the body of the infant, crying, "Where is my baby?"

Beside the bath tub a flat iron and butcher knife were found. The woman was later taken to the hospital. The husband said his wife had made frequent threats to "make away with all three of us."

MORSE CHARGE MAY HIT PLANT AT ALEXANDRIA

Probe Expected to Reveal Irregularities in All of Financier's Concerns.

BANKER AGREES TO RETURN

Abandons Request for Month's Grace After Exchange of Cables With Daugherty.

The Government today is resting on the promise of Charles W. Morse, New York shipbuilder, to sail for New York on the French liner Paris tomorrow, from Havre, France, where he is detained by French authorities, at the request of this Government.

A rapid exchange of cable messages between Morse and Attorney General Daugherty brought definite assurance last night that the New York financier will return at once to face whatever may be the outcome of the present probes in war contract irregularities.

Plea for Delay Denied.

Morse sought to get the Attorney General's consent that his return be postponed until January 5, but Mr. Daugherty cabled him that he is required to return on the next steamer. There was sent from the Attorney General's office at the same time a cablegram advising the American Ambassador at Paris of this Government's wishes and suggesting that proper steps be taken to insure the immediate return of Morse.

Officials for hours were kept in suspense over Morse's request, and they were wondering if the shipbuilder was moving to resist efforts to get him back home. Then came Morse's final reply, stating he would be aboard the Paris when she sails on Monday.

Secrecy as to Charges.

At the Shipping Board and the Department of Justice utmost secrecy was maintained regarding the specific charges on which indictments will be sought against Morse and other persons alleged to be involved in the alleged financial irregularities.

It was indicated, however, that the trail has led through the entire mass of the Morse interests during the four months' investigation conducted by the Shipping Board. It is probable that indictments will be asked simultaneously against numerous persons involved in the charges at practically every place where a Morse interest had its headquarters.

The Morse interests were spread all over the East, from Virginia to Maine. In 1916 Morse entered the shipbuilding field by acquiring the Robert Palmer and Son Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company and building a large shipbuilding plant at Noank, Conn.

Morse Warned Not to Delay.

PARIS, Dec. 3.—Despite his promise to sail for New York on the French liner Paris, leaving Havre on Monday, Charles W. Morse, American shipbuilder, was warned by the French immigration authorities today that he must allow nothing to interfere with his plans for departure.

Suspect Taken Near U. S. Embassy in France

PARIS, Dec. 3.—A man who aroused suspicion by his eccentric behavior was arrested in front of the American embassy today. When searched he was found to have letters which conveyed threats against President Millerand of France.

He is believed to be insane and probably will be committed to an asylum.

TIMES' EXPOSE CRIPPLED KLAN, GOBLIN ASSERTS

Ku Klux Organization in Washington Hurt by Revelations, Terrell Complains.

OUTSTOOD ON FIGHTING CLARK

Intend to Press Campaign Against Clique Head of Invisible Empire.

The Washington Times' exposure of the activities of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan prevented the forming of a strong organization in the District of Columbia, it was learned last night from Harry B. Terrell, former grand goblin of the Washington domain.

Terrell was "fired" Thursday for leading a campaign to oust Imperial Kleagle Edward Young Clark, who, he claimed, was standing in the way of attempts of organizers to recruit "high class" men.

In an interview granted yesterday to a special representative of The Times in Atlanta, Ga., Terrell said:

"A strong organization was being built up in Washington when The Times' exposure of the order and revelations concerning the ruling group placed a handicap on the work."

Klan Weak in Washington.

"The Klan in Washington is not strong. It has only been in existence a short time. However, it probably would be much stronger except for the newspaper revelations."

Terrell declared that nearly 1,000 men have affiliated with the District of Columbia Klan. The headquarters of the local Klan are at room 801, Munsey building, and are now in charge of W. K. Southall, Terrell said.

Asked whether the Washington klansmen had demanded the removal of Clark, as had other klansmen throughout the United States, the former grand goblin said:

"As far as I know the Washington Klan has not taken action concerning

Bomb Scare Fails When Explosive is Examined

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—When State Chemist Walter Wedger had finished an examination today a "bomb" found in the Parkman band stand reposed in an official ash can, and a "terrorist plot" had evaporated in thin air.

Chemist Wedger announced that the bag of "assorted explosives" found on the bandstand steps, that sent policemen scurrying about looking for an anarchist earlier today, contained nothing more than sand, baking soda and kapok, a material used in making life preservers.

Mrs. Gould's Estate Willed to Children

TOMS RIVER, N. J., Dec. 3.—The entire residuary estate of Mrs. George Jay Gould, who died recently while playing golf, is left in equal parts to her children and to their issue, after the death of their father, under the terms of her will filed here.

The will names George Jay Gould, Jr., George Jay Gould, Jr., and Charles P. Noyes, of New York, executors without bonds. The size of the estate was not indicated.

Several persons were designated to select jewels from Mrs. Gould's collection as keepsakes.

Guarantees Can Curb French War Spirit, Say Lady Astor and Wells

Lady Astor Says: H. G. Wells Says:

French Militarism Will Not End Until Allies Promise Her Protection. Conference Will Be Worse Failure Than Versailles Parley Unless It Checks Europe's War Spirit.

By VISCONTRESS ASTOR, M. P.

The Only Woman Member of the British Parliament. (Copyright, 1921, by the United States, Canada, Great Britain, France, Italy and South America by John F. Dills. All rights reserved.)

LONDON, Dec. 3.—In my previous articles, I have tried to show how sincere the longing for peace is in this country, and how that longing must be translated into better mutual understanding and complete fearlessness.

During the last fortnight the conference has been brought face to face with facts which, though they may seem discouraging, need not stand in the way of a lasting peace if we meet them courageously.

Eloquent Expression.

The eloquent expression given by M. Briand, the French prime minister, to French fears and to present day French feeling has been one of those cold blasts of reality that the conference, if it is to achieve its purpose, must weather.

Like all women, like all civilized people, the horrors endured by France roused me to the very highest degree of sympathy that it is possible for any one to feel. No one who visited the ravaged districts of France can forget that scene of desolation, the ruined villages, the shattered forests and orchards.

I know something too of what her people have felt in the past with the menace of German militarism hanging perpetually over their heads. But peace is now only possible if we resolutely turn our backs on old suspicions and resolve to abolish militarism and all its terrors.

Terrorism and Suspicion.

We cannot achieve peace in Europe or anywhere else if terrorism on one hand and suspicion on the other are allowed to continue. This state of mind is bound up with huge conscript armies and huge conscript armies are at least as much of a menace to peace as big navies.

What are the facts? I am not a military expert, but I learn with

Simple Tests Identify Diamond That's Genuine

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Is your diamond genuine? If there is any doubt in your mind the best thing is to take it to a reliable jeweler. You can, however, test the stone yourself. Here's how:

A genuine diamond immersed in a glass of water will flash and sparkle as brightly as in the air. A counterfeit gem will be almost invisible.

An imitation squeezed between two silver dollars may be crushed by the pressure of the fingers. This test, when performed by the strongest man, will not injure a diamond.

Snow Storm Raging In Western Kansas

Trains were running from one to four hours behind scheduled time.

BALFOUR BACKS SCHEME AFTER SHOWDOWN ON HOLDS IN CHINA

Reservations by Japan to Giving Up Leaseholds Throw Issue Into Conference.

CHINA HOLDS WHIP HAND

Insistence on Return of Shantung Railroad Crucial Question in Parley.

By NORMAN HAPGOOD.

Staff Correspondent, Universal Service. Vivid suggestions about what may take the place of the Anglo-Japanese alliance were revealed last night by information that Secretary Hughes, Under Secretary Fletcher, Baron Kato, Mr. Balfour, M. Viviani and Baron Schanzer had been in conference on the subject.

The tri-partite agreement, first discussed, later made four-sided by the admission of France, thus would become a five-cornered agreement, as it is understood Italy's wish to come in was promptly complied with.

The form in which this agreement, if reached, will be put to the Senate forms one of President Harding's most difficult problems. Senators Lodge and Underwood were busy last night sounding out Senatorial opinion, as they want to know whether the final form of the agreement requires confirmation or not. They seek in any case to prevent or limit a resulting fight.

Balfour Fathers Scheme.

This action for a quintuple Pacific understanding was taken on British initiative, Arthur Balfour playing the leading part in bringing the plenipotentiaries together.

On the delicate issue of leaseholds in China, held under treaties by foreign powers, there was a showdown yesterday of the stand taken by each foreign nation.

There was no final decision, because Japan's reservations were such as to prevent a decision.

Viviani, getting his first chance in the conference to use his far-famed eloquence since Briand left him in charge of the work, declared France would pry herself loose if the other countries would commit similar surgery on themselves.

As Japan declined, with or without thanks, to go anywhere near so far, the situation looked back into what is known as "reconsideration." The reconsideration is made, however, with the public enlightened as to where everybody stands on this critical point.

Something of the kind was needed. The conference has lost public confidence in the last week or so. Ex-Senator Sutherland has reported on this subject, as well as on gas, submarine, aeroplanes, and modes of warfare.

Although the reports are not yet made public, I know that a distinct swing against what is generally interpreted as secret diplomacy has taken place. Just what this means you will find out if you read this piece of reporting to the end.

Before getting all balled up in the details it may be well to fix your mind on the fact that the critical point (the main objective, as soldiers call it) is the Shantung railway. Other aspects of the many-sided Chinese question are important and entertaining, but open to negotiation. It is on the Shantung railroad that Japan and China would have broken up the conference if Mr. Hughes and Mr. Balfour had not persuaded them to take the matter out of the conference into the back yard and see if they could not iron it out.

The Administration counts it a great triumph to have saved the conference from breaking China and Japan not to let it but to negotiate directly. Maybe it is. It all depends on what happens now. Japan is very set on control (politely called joint control)
